COMMENTS FROM THE PAPERS ON JUDGE MADISON'S NOMINATION

Adds Strength to Ticket.

In nominating Judge E. H. Madison of Dodge City for congressman the seventh district Republican convention has done only what has been expected for several weeks. Judge Hutchinson, the only other candidate, is a clean, able, staunch Republican who would have made a splendid Congressman had he been nominated and elected. The fact that he had his judicial district solidly behind him shows the esteem in which he is held among his neighbors, where he is best known. It is no disparagement to Judge Hutchinson to say that Judge Madison's more extensive acquaintance over the district gave him the lead and that it has been apparent for some time that the popular drift was to the Dodge City statesman.

By its action the convention has offered to the voters of the district one of the cleanest, ablest, and most eloquent men in the state, a man who will be a credit to the district which he will represent, and a fit successor to the other men who have represented the Seventh district in the lower house of Congress. Ed Madison has been prominent in the affairs of the district for a dozen years. He has been county attorney of Ford county and judge of the district extending south and west of that point. He filled both positions with honor and credit and has won the right to a promotion. His eloquence as a speaker has made him a favorite among Republicans and this same eloquence, coupled with the real ability which is his, will win him recognition in Congress, sooner than it is won by the average new member.

Judge Madison is a Republican who takes pride in the party's achievements but does not allow this pride to blind him to the problems of the present. He belongs to that energetic class of younger Republicans who with Roosevelt believe that the party must meet and solve present day problems in the same spirit in which it met the crises of the earlier days. If it would win and retain popular support. He is right on the trust and railroad rate questions, which are of paramount importance in the public mind just now, and a champion of those other great policies that make the Republican party a party of action rather than reaction.

In the campaign that is about to open Judge Madison will be one of the most effective speakers. He is a true orator, playing on the emotions as well as the intellect of his audience, and a speech of his is entertaining as well as instructive. One of the treats which the people may look forward to with confidence will be a speech by Judge Madison, as it has long been the custom for the congressional candidate to make at least one speech in this city during each campaign.

Judge Madison will not only make a good Congressman, he will make a fine candidate. He has the power to win and hold people to him that is a rare gift and his nomination will add strength to the ticket in state and district.—Hutchinson News.

From State Paper.

The Topeka Capital of March 16, says editorially: "Judge E. H. Madison of Dodge City, was unanimously nominated for Congress by the Republicans of the Seventh district yesterday. He has been a strong man in the Seventh district politics for some years and his unanimous nomination is due to his personal popularity and to the faith that Seventh district Republicans all have that he will earnestly support the progressive measures that the advanced wing of the party, headed by President Roosevelt, stands for in these times. Judge Madison has been making some vigorous speeches throughout his district and has definitely lined up with the progressive element of Republicans. He owes his nomination to no man or set of men, but to himself and to the good will of the rank and file of people in the big Seventh district. He is a man of unusual ability and will make a strong addition to the Kansas delegation at Washington."

From The Herald

The Topeka Herald says: "Judge Edward H. Madison nominated yesterday at Hutchinson to represent the Seventh district, most of which was last year in Victor Murdock's district, is a new aspirant for congressional honors. In the preliminary contest he has proved himself a very popular resident of the shortgrass country and his nomination will undoubtedly satisfy the Republican voters of the entire district. Judge Madison is an able lawyer, and a young and vigorous man. He will undoubtedly give a good account of himself when he takes his seat under the shadow of Uncle Joe Cannon's gavel.

From Outside the State.

The Kansas City Times of Friday morning says: "Few conventions whether national, state or district, have listened to a more forceful address than that delivered by Judge Madison after his nomination had been made. He dealt with the railroad situation, rebates, trusts and monopolies in an 'A B C' manner, that was not only judicial in its reasoning, but sent every delegate home with a clearer understanding of all these problems than he probably had had before Judge Madison made a plea for the enforcement and observance of the law even if the law should happen to be a weak one that caused these particular utterances to be greeted with cheers."

East End of District.

Judge E. H. Madison was nominated today by the big Seventh district, and he is a worthy successor to those that have preceded him, Peters, Long, Simpson and Murdock. He is a young man, but old enough to have earned the recognition he received today. He is an able man and when the new is worn off, will make his influence felt in the lower house of congress. He is a honest man and every citizen of the district can feel that the representative from the big Seventh will honor the district that stands back of him. He has won the nomination without intrigue or scheming. He has had an easy victory and will have a large majority in the election this fall. The district he will represent is one of the largest in the Union. Large, even with almost another district cut out from its former size. He will represent a district rich and resourceful. It is an agricultural country, yet not without its factories. It will in all probability become one of the greatest sugar producing districts in the land, when the best sugar industry has become developed. His district has the largest salt plants in the world, likewise the largest apple orchards in the United States. It has the largest cattle ranches in the country within its borders. His district has a county that leads all other counties in the state in the production of wheat. Taken altogether had Judge Madison the choice of districts to represent in the United States, in the lower house of congress, it is doubtful if he could find one that has more of the blessings of the Almighty resting on it, and fewer of the curses than he has in the big Seventh.

He leaves an honorable record on the bench to serve the people in a higher capacity. He will be found as capable, as upright in the new position as he has been in the old. He goes into the campaign with no factionalism to hinder his work. His election is as certain as his nomination. He will make the big Seventh an honest, conscientious and capable congressman.—Hutchinson Independent

From St. John News.

Judge Madison has the best wishes of every Republican, we believe, in Stafford county and ninety-nine per cent, of them in the district. He will be elected by the largest majority ever given a candidate for Congress in Kansas. He goes into the campaign with the good will of all, regardless of political belief. The people know he is the best equipped man in the district for the position. He's competent, deserving and above all, honest. He will be a worthy successor to the brilliant Murdock. The candidate who pits himself against Judge Madison will not receive enough votes to be counted in "this also ran" class. Stafford county feels a keen interest in Madison, for it was this county that gave him the boost at the right time that precluded all possibility of defeat. But Stafford county thinks no more of Madison than does Madison of Stafford county. Now let us do our duty and prudently fall and roll up for our new congressman the biggest majority ever given a congressional candidate. We can do it and not half try.
